THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

SHOWS STATE FEDERATION OF LABOR TO BE IN SPLENDID CONDITION.

BIG CRIST OF WORK SECOND DAY

A Detailed Report of Proceedings, Together With Pictures of Many Men Prominent in the Ranks of Labor.

The second day's session of the Missouri State Federation of Labor convention convened at 9:05 o'clock this morning, with President Sheridan presiding and nearly all delegates present.

The first order of business was the reading of the minutes of the sessions held Monday, which were approved as read.

The committee on credentials reported that three new delegates from organizers occasionally sent in the state by different international unions.

Mr. Sheridan went on record by saying that there is in vogue in this state a barbarous system of employing convicts, and that by the system established the state realizes sufficient revenue to defray the expense of keeping the prisoners in the penitentiary at Jefferson City.

Mr. Sheridan spoke as follows of the telegraphers' eight-hour law: "My attention has been called to the fact that the telegraphers' eight-hour law enacted by the last legislature is not being enforced by the proper state officials." He further reviewed the situation by saying that the railroads and other powerful corporations are the only creatures that can violate the laws with impunity.

"The general assembly of 1905 passed a law making eight hours a legal work day for men engaged in and around mines and smelters," he said, "and today this law is being violated in the southwest district of the state. The prosecuting attorney of Jasper county tested the law in the circuit court of that district before Judge Gray, who declared the law unconstitutional in so far as it applied to men working on top of the ground."

Mr. Sheridan in the report referred to the employment of child labor throughout the state, and advocated strongly the strict enforcement of the child labor law.

In conclusion he said that there is a great necessity for putting an organizer in the field.

President Sheridan thanked everyone for the confidence that had been placed in him and for the honors that had been conferred on him, and the officers of the Missouri State Federation for their support during the past year, which, according to the report, was as prosperous as any in the history of the Federation.

The report was received and referred to the committee on officers' report.

Secretary-Treasurer J. T. Smith, of Kansas City, submitted his annual report, giving in detail the work done during the past year, including receipts, expenditures and all incidental matters pertaining to the business of the State Federation of Labor.

Especially did Mr. Smith refer to the work done by the legislative board, and what had been accomplished in the way of perfecting new labor organizations. In concluding he spoke very complementarily of the work of E. T. Behrens, of Sedalia, in bringing local labor organizations in affiliation with the Federation of Labor. This report, like that of President Sheridan, was referred to the proper committee.

W. L. Wall, statistician, who was unable to be present at the meeting, submitted his annual report through Secretary Smith, giving wages paid in various cities in the state to members of organized labor, the prevailing conditions and the per cent of organized workmen in different places. The report of Statistician Wall was duly received and referred to the committee on officers' reports.

E. E. Johnson, of St. Louis, chairman of the legislative committee, announced that his report would be ready in time for the afternoon session.

The regular reports of committees were taken up and W. Walter Stotts, a member of the special committee appointed at the Moberly convention last year, reported on the child labor problem. The report was along the line of the efforts of organized labor in eliminating child labor in all industrial establishments as far as is possible.

The report, among other things, contained data as to the number of children employed in factories in the state, the larger portion of them being employed in tobacco factories, sewing institutions, shoe factories and other establishments in open violation of the laws.

Delegate C. P. Connolly submitted a very interesting report of the two weeks' session of the American Federation of Labor at Minneapolis, and what was accomplished during the sessions held.

Among other things was the interesting of farmers in organizing among themselves of unions, and considerable time was devoted during the meeting to that procedure.

The convention voted to devote the last half hour of both morning and afternoon sessions to the introducing of resolutions.

Charles W. Fear, secretary-treasurer of the joint legislative board, submitted a resolution to the effect that the convention extend greetings to the national president, Samuel Gompers, and that a copy of the resolutions be mailed him on account of his stand on the strike of the Commercial Telegraphers' union. The resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote.

A communication from the Kansas Farmers' union was read by Secretary Smith, giving the situation of both consumers and producers from a labor standpoint. The paper referred to the ownership of property and gave the ratio of 1 per cent of the population owning 90 per cent of the property values.

Resolutions in opposition to the American Tobacco company employing child labor, and against the convict labor system now in vogue at the Missouri state penitentiary were introduced and referred to the resolutions committee.

Several other resolutions were read and referred to the different committees, and adjournment was had until 2 o'clock p. m.

The Afternoon Session.

The afternoon session convened at 2 o'clock, the attendance not being nearly so large as that of the forenoon session, but many of the delegates came in during the proceedings.

The minutes of the morning session were read by Assistant Secretary E. T. Behrens, and were approved.

The regular order of business was dispensed with by an acclamation vote of the convention, in order to give an opportunity to Secretary Smith to complete the reading of several resolutions handed to him at the morning session, all of which were referred to committees to pass upon.

The regular report of the legislative committee was then made in detail.

The afternoon session will not be concluded until 4:30 o'clock.

This evening at 8 o'clock addresses will be delivered by the labor leaders announced to speak last night, they being prevented from filling their engagements last evening on account of the meeting place being dark by reason of an insufficient gas supply.

Collis Lovely, vice president of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union in St. Louis, and author of "Abuse of Prison Labor," will also be on the program, having for his subject, "Convict Labor."

Convention Notes.

B. F. Brown, of Hannibal, is among the delegates who are pulling for Hannibal for the convention in 1908. Hannibal, which has a good representation in the convention, is desirous of securing the annual convention of the Federation for 1908.

Curtis Kennedy and Al J. Roberts, of St. Joseph, Mo., were among the new arrivals today, and were in attendance as delegates at the convention.

Thomas Kinsella, a member of the Steam Fitters' union in St. Louis, and John T. Mooney, of the Plumbers' union of that city, are among the visitors here for the convention.

Fully two tons of literature of an advertising nature and many novelties sent out by business firms representing organized labor have been sent here to be distributed during the convention.

Miss Kate Meyers, representing the Shirt Waist and Laundry Workers, is among the enthusiastic attendants in the convention, and many compliments have been paid her for being the only lady present at all the sessions held.

Several prominent speakers were on the program for addresses at the meeting to have been held last night, but on account of a breakage in one of the gas mains no light was to be had, making it necessary to call the mass meeting off. The speakers on last night's program will be heard with the others before the convention adjourns.

On account of no meeting being held by the State Federation at the court house last night, an opportunity was afforded the different committees to get together, and they accomplished much work, which was brought before the meeting today.

On account of a large amount of business being on hand to be transacted it is altogether probable that the convention will be held one more day than originally intended, which would bring adjournment on Friday instead of Thursday.

BURGLARS AT JOHN GOLD'S

Were Frightened Away Before Making a Raise.

John Gold, the Katy car shop foreman, and family, residing at 205 East Seventh street, had a scare from burglars last night at their home.

Mr. Gold had been down town and returned home about 11 o'clock. Soon after he entered his home he heard a noise on the front porch, which sounded like some one attempting to raise a window.

He investigated and when he reached the door the intruders were heard to run from the porch.

Mrs. Gold and daughters attended the performance at the Airdome last night and returned home in advance of Mr. Gold. The house, when they entered it, bore evidence of some one having been in during their absence, and it is believed that burglars were making a second attempt to make a raise when discovered by Mr. Gold.

THE "ANTI-LIO" PEOPLE

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE STATE W. C. T. U. IS IN SESSION TODAY.

CONVENTION MEETS TOMORROW

Changes in Department Work Made, a New One Added, Constitution Amended and Other Work Disposed Of.

The state executive committee of the Women's Christian Temperance union of Missouri, which organization begins a three days' convention in this city tomorrow, is in session at the First M. E. church here today. About thirty-five members are in attendance. Mrs. Clara Hoffman, of Kansas City, president, presided with her old time fire and vim. The meeting was entirely harmonious. At the morning session of the committee six new district presidents were introduced, various amendments to the constitution were adopted, and a new department of temperance work among lumbermen was established, the work being placed in charge of Miss Susie Bryan, state superintendent, of Mountain View, Mo.

The department of mothers' meeting and cradle roll was changed to that of moral education. This embodies a change asked for and recommended by various public school teachers in the interest of purity.

A splendid talk was given to the many district presidents by Mrs. E. B. Ingalls, of St. Louis, vice president at large.

Mrs. Julia Glazier, of Savannah, state treasurer, gave a practical, common sense talk, and was followed by Mrs. Hoffman along the same lines.

Superintendents of the various departments were re-nominated, with only a few changes.

Mrs. Susan Bennett, of Odefsa, was nominated as superintendent of the department of unfermented wine for sacramental purposes, vice Miss Anna Dowden, resigned.

Mrs. E. B. Ingalls was nominated as superintendent of anti-narcotics, vice Mrs. Stemmons, also resigned.

Miss Flora Jeane was nominated as state superintendent of schools' savings banks, vice Mrs. Middleton, resigned.

Mrs. M. E. Golladay, of Holden, asked to be relieved as state superintendent of red letter day, and Mrs. Susie Ingalls was nominated instead.

Mrs. D. R. Woods was nominated as superintendent of penal and reformatory work, vice Mrs. Van B. Wisker, removed from the state.

Mrs. Mary Grigs was nominated as superintendent of work among foreign people. Four departments were deferred until later.

Adjournment was had until 2 p. m., the ladies dining at the Boston cafe in the meantime.

At the afternoon session of the had arrived, and that Isaac Taylor, a journeyman tailor of Kansas City, was entitled to a seat. A protest was filed Monday against Mr. Taylor's eligibility, but after an impartial hearing of the case it was decided that his credentials were all right.

T. J. Jackman, a delegate from Higginsville, was appointed as vice president, following which President Thomas W. Sheridan submitted his report.

President T. J. Sheridan made his annual report, covering thoroughly everything that has been done by the labor organizations of the state during the time intervening since the last convention at Moberly, Mo.

HENRY M. WALKER, General Organizer American Federation of Labor, Who is Visiting the Missouri Federation of Labor Convention.

President Sheridan, in connection with his regular report, made a very interesting talk, and among other things stated that the success achieved during the past year by the general labor movement was very gratifying. He further stated that the American Federation of Labor had had a large increase in membership, due largely to the instituting of local unions among the unorganized, and to the affiliation of national unions that heretofore remained outside its jurisdiction.

In his remarks Mr. Sheridan said: "The growth of the movement in Missouri has not been so rapid as it should be, nor has it kept pace with the progress made in other states. This is due to the fact that we depend wholly upon volunteer organizers and the assistance we receive

ROOSEVELT WILL TALK.

President Roosevelt is to make several more speeches before congress convenes. He will talk at Canton, Keokuk, St. Louis, Cairo and Memphis. It seems hardly likely that he can make the five speeches without getting into one of them some new pronouncement. It may be that he will answer Speaker Cannon, who has said that congress must go slow at the next session. Mr. Roosevelt's legislative stride is a fast one, and he doesn't like to have people throw rocks in his path, particularly as he believes his path is the people's path.

What ructions there will be if the president should have the temerity to take issue with the speaker of the house. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr.
Cannon have been at odds many times, but they have fought their matters out in the privacy of the White House offices. It would not do the party any good if the two should come to a public disagreement.

It isn't to be supposed for a moment that the president would speak directly of Mr. Cannon's "go slow" edict, but he may outline certain things that he wants done, and then say: "The time to do them is next winter."

He holds the whip hand over Uncle
Joe, for if the speaker should get really very angry the president could shock his sensibilities beyond recovery
by sending in a tariff revision message.

DEMOCRATS AND POPULISTS.

Mayor Dahlman, of Omaha, declares himself a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor of Nebraska, and Mr. Bryan is backing him. Will the populists heartily support Mr. Dahlman and Mr. Bryan
in this effort to redeem Nebraska,
or are those populists who were originally republicans so in love with Teddy and his understudy, Taft, that even Mr. Bryan can not seduce them from their idol? The question of how the populists will vote will decide the fate of the democrats in the northwestern states, for in 1896
they held the balance of power in Nebraska and other states, but since then have mainly been acting with the parties from which they originally emerged.

CORPORATION STATESMEN.

Another enterprising republican statesman, Senator DuPont, of Delaware, is in danger of being indicted criminally for conspiring to restrict trade in his connection with the powder trust. But if all the republican United States senators who are connected with corporations are prosecuted—which is not at all likely to occur under republican auspices—it would break a quorum of the senate.

There is Gugenheimer, Aldrich—
but what is the use of naming them?
The people of each state know their own black sheep and some of them
persist in keeping these representatives of corporations and trusts
where they can do the most harm.

The tariff duty on pig lead is two and one-eighth cents per pound. Consumers of lead want an opportunity to buy in the world's open markets,
but are denied because the lead trust exerts its influence to prevent the removal of the tariff duty, which is used as a lever to keep the price up.

GOV. JOSEPH W. FOLK,
The Missouri Executive Spoken of as a Possible Democratic Presidential Nominee.

Copyright, 1907, by C. D. Frey.

Of course, the republicans will not remove the duty. That would hurt
the trust and help the public, a policy which directly contravenes the doctrines of protectionism. So it is in all other cases of trust-made goods.

Governor Hoke Smith, of Georgia,
wants a higher tax on the property of the railroads. He believes that when the agents of roads swear in court that their property is worth a sum twice or three times as great as its assessed value, there is something wrong. Every railroad should have its value ascertained and be assessed accordingly.

It was a happy thought of that North Carolina judge to put law-breaking railroad officials in the chain gang. It worked like a charm, and now Teddy's admirers are wondering why he never suggested it as a mode of trust busting.

All trusts are bad trusts, because the object of every trust is to restrain trade, and thereby extort unfair
prices from the consumers of trust made goods. One might as well talk about good thieves as good trusts.

It is stated that a typewriter is being manufactured, which, in addition to the usual characters, has twenty-two extra keys, representing the most commonly used of the short words. This ought to be a bonanza to the poor newspaper men when they have to "make copy."

The republican party has elected Guggenheimer, of the lead and silver trust, and DuPont, of the powder trust, as United States senators, and a number of others who are trust and railroad sympathizers, and yet
the g. o. p. would pose as a trust
buster and railroad regulator.

The earth is pear-shaped, says
Prof. Love, of London. Instead of "round like an orange, as the geographers say." The Sioux City News tempted Providence by saying that this is a fruitful subject, and that it is surprised that there have never been banana puns made on it before.

HICKS,

Eagle Kite Fooled Kingfishers.

Seven boys entered their miniature airships for the annual kite-flying contest, open to children of the public and parochial schools, which took place the other afternoon in Genessee Valley park.

Interest was lent to the contest by an odd incident, showing that the birds of the air may be fooled by the cleverness of man. Alling Brown had a kite made in imitation of an American eagle, and when it spread its wings to the breeze and rode away into the air it looked like a real "king of the air."

Indeed, so perfect was the imitation that as the beautiful kite soared over one of the trees in the park in rising, two large kingfishers saw the strange fowl, and, uttering their shrill
cry of battle, left the tree and followed the kite high into the air. They whirled and circled around their new enemy, but such was their awe of the majestic bird they did not venture to push hostilities to the actual point of contact. This eagle kite took the first prize.—Rochester Herald.

Saved Wounded Pigeon.

The archdeacon of London, in an address on the growth of what he called the "instinct of rescue," told of something he had done recently that had given him great pleasure. Coming out of the house of commons one day,
he noticed a pigeon that had been run over lying in the road. He called the attention of a police constable to the little heap of crippled feathers, and asked what were bent to be done.
"Best to kill it," said the constable.
"But I couldn't do that," said the archdeacon. Picking up the bird, he put it inside his coat and took it home. He managed to set the broken bone of the leg, and after tending the patient tenderly for two months, had the pleasure of seeing it restored to its former condition and fly joyously away to rejoin its comrades on the roof
of the house of commons.

Stage Money.

Representatives of the theater trust,
searching abroad for talent, chanced upon a London dance hall singer.

"We will give you $50,000 a week,
a ten years' contract, you need appear only 20 minutes each night and you have an individual press agent," they told her.

"But will you fire me a lawyer by the year to hattend to me divorce ha-fairs?" she asked.

They agreed to this readily, and
the uplift of the stage was assured.

Very Appropriate.

"Pullman Porter" commented the stranger. "That's a queer name for cigarettes. Why do they bear that name?"

"Because they are silver-tipped,
sir," replied the tobaccoist.

SEDALIA DAY IS SELECTED

MAYOR COLLINS DESIGNATES
FRIDAY, SEPT. 20, AS LOCAL DAY AT EXPOSITION.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE PROGRAM

Missouri Day Will Be the Day Following, and Governor Folk Will Be Present and Will Speak.

Mr. Silas E. Snyder, of Kansas City, Mo., who for more than a year has been connected with the Jamestown exposition in the general press department and as chief of exploitation, arrived in the city last night
on a tour of the state in the interest of the Ter-Centennial, and when seen by a representative of the Democrat-Sentinel today gave out the following interview:

"With the recent completion of the last details in the construction of the government pier, which for the past two months has been the only unfinished feature of the big fair,
the Jamestown Ter-Centennial exposition, on historic Hampton Roads, stands as a monument to colonial architecture and southern enterprise;
an exposition unique among previous celebrations, in that it is located at the seaside and in one of the most picturesque spots, and in a section of the 'Old Dominion' hallowed by history-making events. The immense exhibit palaces, state and government buildings, practically all of permanent construction, in their setting of the most luxuriant trees, flowers and foliage, give to the fair an appearance distinct from all its predecessors.

The exposition, located as it is, on the shores of Hampton Roads, conceded to be the finest natural harbor
on the Atlantic coast, is the first exposition to be held in this country on deep water, resulting in the almost continual rendezvous of the battleships of the North Atlantic fleet, under the command of Rear Admiral 'Fighting Bob' Evans, giving to the people of the middle west the opportunity of a life time to get a glimpse of Uncle Sam's navy, while visiting the Ter-Centennial."

In conclusion, Mr. Snyder said:
"With Missouri's splendid showing
at the exposition, an educational feature of the twentieth century that no one can afford to miss, it remains as imperative that every citizen of this state make a point of paying a visit to the Jamestown exposition
and the 'Old Dominion,' and partake
of that delightful southern hospitality, of which you have all heard so much."

On Missouri day, Sept. 21, Governor Folk and party will be escorted from the Missouri building to the Auditorium by the marines from the battleship Missouri, which will be with the Atlantic fleet in Hampton Roads on this date. At the Auditorium there will be addresses by Governor Folk and President Tucker, of the exposition, music, military reviews, etc., and at night there will be a reception and an illumination of the grand pier as a special compliment to Missouri.

During the day the second yacht race for the Sir Thomas Lipton cup
will be sailed, and on the following Monday the last race of this series of international yacht races will be sailed. Monday, Sept. 23, will also be Robert Fulton Memorial day, one of the greatest of the entire fair.

Mr. Snyder called on Mayor Collins and presented a formal invitation, asking that Mayor Collins designate a special day for Sedalia at the exposition. The mayor graciously accepted, and at once issued the following proclamation:

Proclamation.

Whereas, there is now being held in the state of Virginia, near the city of Norfolk, on the shores of historic Hampton Roads, an exposition in celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the first settlement in America of English speaking people,
and,

Whereas, The Jamestown Ter-Centennial exposition is in every way worthy of the history-making event
it celebrates, being unique in its location on the sea, in its colonial architecture and its spectacular military and naval features, and,

Whereas, The state of Missouri has endorsed the Ter-Centennial exposition and its purposes by appropriating the sum of $40,000 for an exhibit of the state's resources

there, and,

Whereas, The Jamestown Exposition company has invited the city of Sedalia to designate a day to be known as Sedalia day at the Jamestown exposition,

Now, therefore, I, John A. Collins, mayor of the city of Sedalia,
Mo., do hereby officially designate Friday, Sept. 20, to be set aside as Sedalia day at the Jamestown exposition, and I call upon the good citizens of Sedalia to make a note of this fact, and urge all who may to attend the Jamestown exposition and do honor to our city and state.

(Signed.) JOHN A. COLLINS,
Mayor of Sedalia, Mo.

RAPID FOR GREAT MEN.

Achievements Frequently Belittled by Their Contemporaries.

Learned men do not always appreciate the achievements of their fellows. It is related that a friend brought Milton's "Paradise Lost" to MacKenzie, the great Scotch mathe-matician, who remarked, when he had finished it:

"It's verra pretty; but, mon, what does it prove?"

An anecdote of Dean Buckland illustrates the antipathy felt 60 years or more ago by the old classical scholars at Oxford to the new scientific learning. They described it as "mischievous and absurd." When Buckland went to Rome for a long vacation
one year an elder don is said to have exclaimed: "Well, Buckland has gone to Italy. Thank heaven, we shall hear no more of this silly geology!"

James Russell Lowell, while minister at the Court of St. James, remarked one day to a friend, a prominent British statesman, that he was going to Enfield in search of the grave of Charles Lamb. "That reminds me of the judgment of Lamb by one of his contemporaries," said the statesman. Said he: "Lamb is a slightly writer of silly papers, in which there is no mention of political questions of the day."

Paganini, the great violinist, while in England was referred to by a great jurist, writing to a friend, as "a poor fiddler who had driven the town mad
with his squeaks and scrapes."

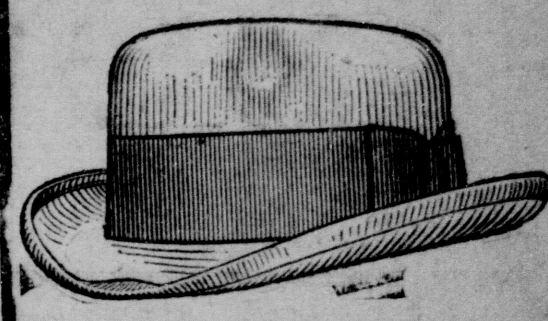

A good story is told of Henry Clay,
in the zenith of his popularity and fame. Meeting an old schoolmate at a reception he expressed regret that another friend, a mutual acquaintance,
whose career promised to be brilliant,
had given up his life to the raising of pigs and making a fortune. The friend presently met the gentleman referred to, who exclaimed, with a shake of the head:

"Poor Harry Clay! He might have made a good stock grower, and be a comfortable planter now if he had not wasted his time in politics."

Even "the father of his country"
did not escape detractors, as we all know. Tradition has it that old John Adams once stood before a picture of Washington, at which he shook his fist and exclaimed:

"You old humbug! If you had not kept your mouth closed you'd have been found out!"

"WHO GOES TO HELL"

That Was the Subject at Last Night's Meeting.

The sermon last night at the tent meeting on Grand avenue, between Main and Second streets, was on the subject, "Who Goes to Hell."

The speaker said he did not want to frighten people, but he did want to deal with them honestly, and preach the truth.

Tonight he gives a sermon on "The Immortality of the Soul."

The interest in the meeting is constantly increasing. Several cottage prayer meetings will be held beginning with tomorrow.

There will be special music along through the meeting. Everybody is asked to be present and take part.

Two Dyspeptics

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated.

Lean, thin, stringy people do not have enough Pepsin in the stomach, while fat people have too much Pepsin and not enough Pancreatine.

Kodol For Dyspepsia

Contains all the digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach, and in exactly those proportions necessary to enable the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all foods that may be eaten. Kodol is not only a perfect digestant, but it is a reconstructive, tissue building tonic as well. Kodol relieves Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Palpitation of the Heart and Constipation. You will like it.

Digests What You Eat

Rests the stomach, rebuilds the tissues and gives firm flesh.

W. J. LETTS SO SAYS IN REGARD TO ROLLED OATS IN SEDALIA AT PRESENT.

PRICES ARE SOARING SKYWARD

Late Season and High Price for Raw Products Makes Manufacturers Worry How to Fill Orders at Advance.

W. J. Letts informs the Democrat-Sentinel that both of the Sedalia wholesale houses are out of package rolled oats, and it is impossible to state when the trade can be supplied. In this connection, the following from the St. Louis Interstate Grocer, dated Sept. 14, is of local interest:

It looks very much as though there might be a famine in rolled oats and kindred products within the next few weeks, as jobbers are practically out of the goods, and manufacturers say that it is impossible for them to get enough to supply the pressing needs of the wholesalers.

An exceptionally late season and an extraordinary demand is what causes the shortage in rolled oats which comes dangerously near being a famine.

Prices for a month have been stiffening on these goods and the demand from the retailers has been so far in excess of the supply that many jobbers have been compelled to "scratch" rolled oats orders where they came in bulk goods and cut down the orders for package goods.

"Oatmeal as a breakfast food is getting to be a very serious problem with the manufacturer, as well as the jobber and retailer," said F. B. Chamberlain to a representative of the Interstate Grocer.

"We seem to be unable to get all the goods at any price in sufficient quantities to meet the demands. The crop this year will undoubtedly be small, and the few threshed oats we are getting are not weighing nearly as much to the bushel as they ordinarily do."

The season is fully a month late and what few oats are coming to the mills find that they are coming on a bare market.

"The price of oats from the farmer has nearly doubled in the past few years, and we find we are unable to supply the demand for rolled oats in bulk at $6.50 to the jobbers in car lots, where we were glad to get $2 less a comparatively short time ago."

"The margin of the manufacturer would be entirely wiped out, even at the advanced prices were it not for the fact that by-products are bringing twice as much as they did a year or two ago."

"On package goods the price to the consumer has not advanced, and the retailer has not been compelled to pay the advance which is really justified by conditions."

"Oatmeal breakfast foods which have been retailing for ten cents should be placed in the list of two for a quarter goods on the basis of what they cost the manufacturers and the retailer, but the makers of well advertised brands are afraid to advance their prices to an extent where it will cause the consumer to pay a higher price."

"It looks very much to me as though practically every brand of rolled oats will be entitled to sell at an advance of at least 25 per cent to the consumer if there is not a change within the next month."

"We can not get the raw goods to manufacture, and under these circumstances it looks as though the scramble for the finished product will cause a most decided advance all along the line unless a change in crop conditions comes very soon."

Jobbers generally say that they can not get enough goods to fill their orders, and they are preparing their retail customers for higher prices, which may mean 12½ cents a package for goods which have gone to the consumer heretofore for a dime.

Stomach troubles, Heart and Kidney ailments, can be quickly corrected with a prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The prompt and surprising relief which this remedy immediately brings is entirely due to its Restorative action upon the controlling nerves of the Stomach, etc.

A Real Distinction.

A young matron of New York is the only one of her family who is not in "Who's Who," her father being a well known clergyman and her mother, brother and sister being more or less celebrated writers. One day her sister was condoling with her on her lack of distinction in this respect. "Never mind, Belle," said the literary sister; "you may not be in 'Who's Who,' but you're the only member of the family who is in the telephone book, and that costs real money."

REPUBLIC IS DOOMED

If It Does Not Listen to the Voice of the Almighty.

New York, Sept. 17.—"New York is as wicked as was Nineveh of old. This republic is doomed unless it obeys the law of God and Jesus Christ."

These startling statements were made in Old Trinity church by Rev. William Wilkinson, of Minneapolis, Minn., in a sermon under the auspices of the Evangelistic committee, which has been conducting special open-air evangelistic services in Wall street and in tents in various parts of the city.

Dr. Wilkinson's text was, "When Jesus came He beheld the city and wept over it."

He said that in New York all things for good and evil centered. The highest achievement was found beside the deepest degradation.

"The wave of crime which swept over this city during the summer," he said, "could not have occurred if the people had followed the advice of the poorest evangelist who ever preached. If this republic does not listen to the voice of God it is doomed."

Hen's Daily Street Car Ride.

Afraid of being called a "nature faker," Motorman Bratchey, of the Berkshire street railway, running between North Adams and Cheshire, Mass., kept to himself sometime the trick of a chicken of fancy pedigree which he owns.

The other day, however, a rural passenger who chanced to be standing in the front vestibule with Bratchey exclaimed in surprise when a chicken suddenly swooped down on to the fender, and after riding there a few minutes came flying up into the vestibule with a squawk of satisfaction.

"By heck!" said the astonished farepayer, "I never seen that done afore, an' I've got more'n 300 chickens."

"I'll bet you didn't," rejoined the motorman, and then he told how the chicken, whose name is Marietta, has been taking these trips on his car, from his home, four miles south of the city, through the principal streets of North Adams and back for sometime now. Bratchey never slows down for Marietta, but she is an expert at making flying connections with the fender, and never forgets to be graceful about it, either.

THE LAY OF THE HEN.

Six Hundred Eggs Are Due from a Small Fowl.

"How many eggs is a hen wound up to lay during the term of her natural life, do you suppose?" said the man who has investigated. "No idea, eh? Well, sir, a good, healthy hen—not speaking of any particular breed, but just hen—a good, healthy hen does not fulfill her destiny until she has turned out 600 eggs—fifty dozen. That's what Nature has fitted a hen to do in the way of eggs, and she gives her eight years to do it in," says a writer in Browning's Magazine.

"The first year of her egg-producing life a hen lays only 20 eggs, but in the three succeeding years she rolls up the score of 370. This leaves only 230 that she must give that many cackles for in the remaining years that she must stand on duty in that line, and she divides the task among those four years so that in the eighth year she lays only 20 eggs again—the number she started in with. Then she has ended her career as an egg producer, and too often, if she is in the hands of a thrifty owner, begins another career, short and delusive—this time as the summer-boarder spring chicken."

"And speaking of eggs, there is a lot about them, familiar as they are to everybody, that people don't suspect. Now, here's an egg that would be a rooster if it was hatched. Wrinkled eggs hold roosters in embryo. A protoplasmic hen lurks in the egg with a smooth-shell shell."

"There is water aplenty in an egg, but no more air than there is in a hammer. So long as you can keep air out of your egg it will remain sweet and fresh, but no one has ever succeeded in keeping it out by fair means more than six days. The insidious oxygen is bound to find its way through an egg-shell's pores, and the only way to save that egg is to eat it. It sounds funny, but the instant you give an egg fresh air that instant you ruin its health."

Foolhardy Fame.

An Italian, whose name is of no consequence, has climbed to the summit of one of the three highest peaks of the Mont Blanc range, called the Dame Anglaise. This peak is 11,400 feet high, and the last 1,000 feet of the ascent was over a smooth and practically perpendicular rock. It required 12 hours to make it, and when done the man of misdirected energy and enterprise actually thought he had achieved fame. But, after all, what sort of fame is it? The man had risked his life to accomplish, what? To be able to say he had climbed to a spot on the mountains that no other person ever did! It is the sort of fame gained by the youth who fired the Ephesian dome. It will be remembered as an act from which no useful consequences can flow and in which life was recklessly imperiled in order that a fool might cry out, "I did it!" In the feat there was no contribution to science, to morals or to the general knowledge of the world.

Following Her Lead.

A Denver woman went to a swell dinner the other day, says the Post of that city. She was seated on the right of the hostess. There were eight people at the table. Before her she found a long array of knives, forks and spoons, and, being possibly a little unsophisticated, she began to work over the problem of using the right ones for the right courses.

Being next to the hostess, she knew she would have to begin eating each course first. However, when the dinner began she stopped worrying and used whatever knife, fork or spoon she thought should be used. She was delighted to find that everybody else at the table did exactly as she did.

When it was all over she learned from four or five women present that they didn't know what to eat with, either, and that they had simply followed her lead.

Hidden Treasure in Bible.

"It's awfully dangerous," said he, "hiding your money away in a book, but if you must, hide it in a Bible. Nobody ever looks in a Bible, you know. Once I was visiting at a house and happened to pick up an old Bible lying on the table and turned the leaves over carelessly. What was my amazement to see drop out from between two pages a $20 bill. My hostess was not less amazed. She couldn't remember putting it there. She thought it had perhaps been put there by her grandmother who had long since died."

Bread Cuddle Cakes.

Soak two cupfuls bread crumbs in two cupfuls of scalding milk over night, having the milk scalding hot when poured over the bread. In the morning rub the bread through a sieve, add a tablespoonful melted butter, the well beaten yolks of two eggs, and a cupful of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a saltspoonful salt. Add the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, and cold milk, if the batter needs thinning. Bake on a moderately hot grid-die.

Eggs with Macaroons.

Take the yolks of six eggs and the whites of three. Crush two macaroons very fine, and mix them with the eggs. Add one tablespoonful of orange flower water, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, and one ounce of melted butter. Beat as for an omelet. But, ter a dish and pour the mixture in. Put it in a pot of boiling water and let it cook until it thickens. When done, sprinkle with powdered sugar, pass over it the salamander, and serve.

Cabbage Salad.

Dressing for one medium sized cabbage: Three heaping tablespoonfuls of flour, made into a smooth paste, two well-beaten eggs; add to three-fourths pint of boiling vinegar, cook a few minutes and beat until smooth. Have ready the shredded cabbage, seasoned with salt, pepper, celery salt, and three-fourths cup of sugar. Pour the dressing over this and let it stand a half hour before serving.

LITTLE GIRLS STRANGLED

Declared That the Crime Could Not Be Proved Against Her.

Johnstown, Pa., Sept. 17.—Mrs. Catherine Thomas, wife of a miner employed at Spangler, strangled her two daughters, aged 1 and 3, respectively, while sleeping with them at the county home, near Ebsenburg.

The woman arose, ate a hearty breakfast and seemed in her usual frame of mind. Later she casually mentioned the deed to another inmate, and investigation proved the story entirely correct.

It is believed that she intended to murder her two sons, who were also at the home, but was unable to induce them to come to her room before the deed was discovered.

Mrs. Thomas and her husband were both committed to jail on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and the woman was released only a day or two ago.

She does not deny the crime, but declares to the officials that it could not be proved against her. She was locked up. It is believed that she is insane, although her conduct gives no evidence of such condition.

No motive is known for the crime other than the statement by Mrs. Thomas that she might as well have killed the children, for if she had not some one else would.

"There may be, however, a few readers of the Democrat-Sentinel who have not tried the Chico. If so we want them to come to our store and get five of these clear Havana filled cigars, just 25 cents worth, and we will agree that if they do not prove just what I claim for them, the best cigar for the money that was ever sold, we will give them back their price and the five cigars will not cost them a cent. We don't know how we can make a better offer than this to show how strongly we recommend Wadsworth Bros.' Chicos."

"Just put this notice in the Democrat-Sentinel and we will have the cigar department ready to sell Wadsworth Bros.' Chicos on 'your money back if not suited' plan."

METHODIST CONFERENCE

THAT OF M. E. CHURCH HAS ADJOURNED AT INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI.

GOES TO WARRENSBURG NEXT YEAR

Assignment of Ministers Was the Work of Bishop Key—Where Those of Two Districts Will Hold Forth

The Southwest Missouri conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, which has been in session at Independence for a week, adjourned at noon Monday.

Warrensburg was chosen as the place of the next annual meeting. The list of appointments for the ensuing year was reserved till the close of the conference.

Rev. A. R. Farris, a former Sedalian, takes the place of Z. M. Williams as presiding elder of the Kansas City district.

Rev. A. H. Barnes, of Westport, also a former Sedalian, is made presiding elder of the Marshall district. His place is taken by O. M. Rickman, of Independence, who in that place is succeeded by W. G. Beasley. Rev. Charles W. M. Moore remains at the institutional church as superintendent, while another man is sent there to do the preaching.

The appointments announced by Bishop Key for the Lexington district, in which Sedalia is located, follow:

Presiding elder, G. J. Warren. Lexington, C. E. Patillo; Waverly, P. J. Rand; Higginsville, J. T. Pritchett; Warrensburg, W. H. Comers; Lamotte and Dresden, S. G. Welborn; Dover and Providence, E. D. Payne; Corder and Blackburn, W. B. Cobb; Odesa and Wellington, J. C. Saylor; Sweet Springs and Blackwater, J. C. Diggs; Houstonia and Herndon, W. F. Waggoner; Longwood and High Point, J. H. Jolly; Montserrat circuit, C. F. Prior; Mayview circuit, to be supplied by H. N. Johnsons; Bates City circuit, N. M. Dowdy; Backner circuit, J. D. Wood; Ottaville circuit, L. M. Phillips; Green Ridge circuit, Calhoun Bruner; Sedalia, J. P. Caskey; Lincoln and Prairie Chapel, B. V. Alton; Warsaw circuit, H. P. Tuck, supply; C. E. Patillo, secretary of education.

Following are the appointments for the Marshall district:

A. H. Barnes, presiding elder. Marshall, Z. M. Williams; Malta Bend and Grand Pass, S. P. Cayton; Miami and Mount Carmel, W. H. Hesler; Gilliam and Cambridge, E. K. Wolfe; Slater, W. M. Roder; Oreaville and Shiloh, W. W. Richards, supply; Arrow Rock and Smith's Chapel, J. W. Ezell; Nelson circuit, E. T. Railey; Booneville, W. N. Winton; Pilot Grove and Pleasant Green, T. B. Cobb; Bunceton and Bellair, W. D. Kelly; Glensted, E. J. Siffer; Mysena Mission, J. S. Wilcox, supply; Vienna circuit, W. M. King; Versailles, W. C. Bentley; California circuit, Walter H. There are a great many people who have slight attacks of indigestion and dyspepsia nearly all the time. Their food may satisfy the appetite, but it fails to nourish the body simply because the stomach is not in a fit condition to do the work it is supposed to do. It can't digest the food you eat. The stomach should be given help. You ought to take something that will do the work your stomach can't do. Kodol for indigestion and dyspepsia, a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids, digests the food itself and gives strength and health to the stomach. Pleasant to take. Sold by Arlington pharmacy.

DEAD IN AUTOMOBILE

Prominent Elks of Colorado Springs Are Killed in Accident.

Colorado Springs, Sept. 17.—An automobile containing seven prominent Elks, while returning here from Manitou early today, ran into a telegraph pole and three of the men were killed and one fatally wounded.

The dead were: William Ralston, dealer in electrical supplies; Britton Graves, druggist; H. Winnall and the chauffeur, named Grey.

The party left the Elks' club house following a social session and were going home at a terrific rate of speed. Four others were slightly hurt. The bodies of the dead were mangled almost beyond recognition.

The accident happened at 3 o'clock this morning, just after the automobile with its merry and jesting passengers had crowded into the two seats, on the hood and on the steps of the machine. They plunged at a terrific clip down the hill, when the driver lost control of the powerful machine and it swerved from side to side across the car tracks and ran into the telephone pole.

of success, in the treatment and cure of diseases peculiar to women, is a bond that guarantees the merit of Wine of Cardui, beyond all question. All women who suffer from painful or fitful functions, headache, backache, low waist-pains, or any of the more complicated forms of female disease, should take for it will surely do for them as well as it did for Mrs. Sarah Gaskins, of Spring Creek, Tenn., who writes: "I was very irregular, my left side hurt and I would have a bad headache every month. I had all kinds of strange feelings, could not walk and could not do my work. On your advice I took Wine of Cardui and it has helped me in every way. I am regular, do not have these strange feelings, and my headache and pain in my side are better."

Girls and women should use Cardui, whenever they need help or strength. Try it.

The reward stands good for one year from date.

ONE OF BOYHOOD'S WOES.

Simple Recital of a Tragedy of the Baseball Field.

Over in the vacant lot back of Jimmie Jones' home the Mudlarks and the Terrors were engaged in a baseball duel to the death. It was the last half of the eighth inning. The score stood five to four in favor of the Mudlarks. Jimmie Jones, the best pitcher of them all, was in the box for the Mudlarks, and the way he sped them through was working havoc with the hopes of the Terrors.
The Terrors were at bat. A man passed to first, an error, and they had a runner at third. Jimmie Jones settled down to pitch, and struck the next two batters out. A run would tie the score. Grimly the Mudlarks settled to the task of shutting out the Terrors. Tense excitement reigned. Jimmie Jones stood, serene and strong as an adamant wall, and the best batter of the Terrors approached the batter's box.
A Mudlark rooter's thin and strained voice arose: "Tree twisters and a fan out, Jimmie! De boys are all wild you!"
Deliberately Jimmie Jones twirled the ball in his fingers preparatory to speeding through a deceptive shoot. The base-runner at third danced forward and back again, ready to take desperate chances to tie the score. Seldom had so critical a stage been reached on the field. Still Jimmie stood, twirling the ball. The hopes of the Mudlarks rested with him.
At length Jimmie Jones gave a final twirl to the ball, swung his arm about like a windmill, and prepared to send the whirling sphere across the plate.
But a sound broke the stillness. Across the back fence that skirted the field a woman's voice came clear, shrill, not to be denied:
"Jimmie Jones, you come home and rock your little brother to sleep this minute!"
Slowly the tense muscles of Jimmie Jones relaxed. The ball stopped in midair. The great arm of the Mudlarks' star pitcher dropped as if paralyzed. A look of great pain came upon his face and his fingers grew nerveless and limp.
"Never mind her, Jimmie," shouted the Mudlark rooter. "Finish out the game."
But Jimmie Jones was undone. He put his suspenders back on his shoulders, passed the ball to the umpire, and with his proud head bowed made his way to where his coat lay in a pile.
"Youse fellers don't know me mudder," was all he said. "Git anudder pitcher."
He walked off the field, leaped the back fence and was lost to view, while the Terror batsman drove a three-bagger and the cheers of the Terrors apprised Jimmie of the full force of the tragedy.

The Humor of the Diplomats.

Occasionally, but not often, the love of fun leads some one away from courtesy, as when a prominent young fellow introduced a former Chinese minister to the colored man, whose duty it was to serve a preparatory cocktail, upstairs, to the dinner guests. "Mr. Minister," said the joker, "allow me to present Mr. our own representative at Liji and Zanzibar." The diplomat took the presentation in good faith, and grasped the true situation only when the newly created minister, with a broad grin, asked whether it should be a Manhattan or a whisky and soda. But this oriental was famous for his own wit and usually came out about even. To a young debutante, who mischievously asked him if it were really true that he had five wives, he gracefully responded that the advantages of such a custom had not occurred to him until after his arrival in the United States. But, as was usually the case with him, there was a serpent's tooth behind even this soft answer.—Bohemian.

Installments All Around.

Patient (gloomily)—I don't seem to be gaining very fast, doctor.
Doctor (cheerfully)—You can't expect to get well at one jump. You will have to regain your health gradually day by day—sort of on the installment plan, as it were.
Patient (brightening up)—Well, doctor, if this thing keeps on much longer, I'm afraid that you will have to collect your bill in the same way.—Judge.

Nearly Anonymous.

Blacknwhite—I feel that I'm not getting a fair show in Scribhar's. Oyles—Why so?
"Why, of course, there's my signature on the drawing; and they print my name at the bottom and over the top and in the contents and in the spiel about 'This month's Scribhar's'."
"Well?"
"Well—that's only five times."—Puck.

ENGINE CAUGHT BIRDS

HOW AN ENGINEER GOT AROUND THE GAME LAWS OF MINNESOTA.

DID NOT EVEN CARRY A SHOTGUN

Still He Scooped in Enough Prairie Chickens for a Dinner, After an Explanation to the Game Warden.

The shot gun "pump" or "double barrel," is the weapon with which the downfall of Minnesota game birds is usually accomplished, but it has remained for "Jim" Andrews, engineer on the Chicago, Great Western flyer, and one of the best known railroad men in Minneapolis, to introduce a new and deadlier weapon, says the Minneapolis Journal. Substituting his locomotive for a shot gun on Sept. 1, Andrews bagged one of the finest "kills" of the season.

Early last Sunday morning the flyer was tearing along south of Dodge Center, near Hayfield. Andrews had his head out of the cab window, following with his eye the yellow trail of the search light.

Suddenly, he saw black specks ahead and like a flash something whirled past his head. At the same time he heard several soft thuds coming from the front of the engine. The train was stopped and Andrews went ahead to investigate.

On the locomotive pilot he found, stunned, but not dead, a prairie chicken, then another, then another. When he had collected enough for a family dinner party he climbed back into his cab and the fast run to Minneapolis was resumed.

When Andrews arrived in the city he started up Washington avenue, proudly carrying the birds which he had brought down by his locomotive. He carried no gun, he wore no hunting clothes, and it was natural that a game warden should stop him.

"Where are you going with those chickens?" asked the game warden "Home," said Andrews.

"Let's see your license," said the representative of the state. "License? I haven't a license," said the sturdy engineer. Then he began to explain. Naturally, the game warden didn't think much of the explanation. Hunting chickens with a locomotive did not seem practical, and he was not sure that it wasn't a violation of the game laws, anyway. He insisted that Andrews give him his name and address, and the railroad man finally complied.

Monday at the Andrews home there was a prairie chicken dinner. The chickens that were eaten were killed under no hunting license, neither were they killed illegally. Mr. Andrews has not heard from the state game commission, but he has consulted a lawyer and he is willing to admit that he and his family ate the chickens.

1,902 AUTO LICENSES

Number State Has Issued to Owners of Machines.

Jefferson City, Sept. 17.—Up to last night Secretary of State Swanger has issued 1,902 licenses to owners of automobiles, fifty-seven to dealers and 664 to drivers.

The total amount collected from this source is $11,378, which, under the law, goes into the good roads fund.

Nun's Work.

The blind nun's work is always good and the filet mesh introduced into embroidery and various laces will be sure to hold its vogue for more than this year. Conservative styles are always for the woman who wears her gowns more than one season, unless she has the foresight to read the signs of the times and chooses the new thing while it is in its first stage. Even then she needs discrimination to know whether an innovation is likely to hold on for a reasonable time.

French Dressing.

With many people the French dressing is usually hit or miss. There is, however, a set formula that insures having the proportions right every time. Put into a bowl or bottle a half teaspoonful of salt and a saltspoonful of pepper. And four teaspoonfuls olive oil, stir with a fork or shake it in a bottle. Add one tablespoonful lemon juice or vinegar, mix thoroughly and pour over the salad.

Home-Made Counterpane.

Buy a pair of lace curtains and fasten them together with a strip of lace insertion. The ruffled ends will fall over the sides and ends of the bed. A cambric cover to harmonize with the tone of the room will add to the effect when placed under the muslin one.

Cheese Pie.

The yolks of four eggs, one and one-half cups sugar, half cup butter, two tablespoons of flour, one teaspoon of lemon extract, one pint milk. Bake with a lower crust. Beat the whites; add a little sugar and brown.

OLD MEN HAVE FAST RUNS.

Veteran Engineers in the Most Responsible Positions.

"Nearly all of the fast runs on the Central are in charge of the oldest men," said Traveling Engineer Patterson, "and they make good, too. Once in a while a younger man might make a better single run, but day in and day out the old man will beat him. If anything goes wrong the old engineer is right on the job. He doesn't get rattled and go up in the air. His long experience has included something like it at some time or other, and he goes to work to get things straight where a younger man would lose his head."

"And as for nerve—why, one of the fastest runners on the road is Bony Thompson, and he is more than 70 years old. He will run as fast as anybody wants to travel along rails, and always handles his engine with rare judgment."

"Then there's Billy Raymond. He isn't any younger than Thompson. If he doesn't run fast enough to make time with the Empire State Express we haven't heard anything about it."
"Martin Ryan is another. His age is between 65 and 68, and yet he handles one of the big Atlantics that pull the Twentieth Century. Ryan is independently rich, and he just runs for fun. Life wouldn't be worth living for him off the road, and the road's glad to have him. Denny Cashin is in the sixties, and he runs nothing slower than the Lake Shore Limited."

"We wouldn't know how to go about placing an age limit, for some men are old at 40 and others are young at 70."

CASUALTIES ON THE ROAD.

American Roads Shown to Be Most Deadly in the World.

Herr Guillery, an official of the archive bureau of the Prussian railway administration, has prepared a comparative table of statistics of those killed and injured by railways in various countries.

He finds that both absolutely and relatively the railroads in the United States are the most deadly. The United States has more mileage than all of Europe, but, even taking that into consideration, the United States holds preeminence in proportional figures.

Out of every 10,000 employees the relative figures of killed are: United States, 26.1; England, 12.3; Switzerland, 8.2; Russia, 7.8; British India, 6.7; Belgium, 4.1.

Out of every 1,000 railway employees the ratio of the number injured each year is as follows: United States, 43.5; Switzerland, 25.3; England, 11.8; Belgium, 11; Germany, 2.4.

Herr Guillery finds that in a single year, the fiscal year of 1902, 376,500 persons were injured in the United States, of whom 60,000 were employees, and 9,800 were killed, of whom 2,600 were employees.

In the matter of travelers injured France holds the lowest record in the world. United States shows proportionately 40 times as many injured as Russia, 20 times as many as Italy, as England, 20, Belgium, 8, Switzerland 4, Germany, 2.

HIS DREAM CAME TRUE

That of an Engineer That Landslide Would Imperil Train.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 17.—Confidence in a dream probably averted a big wreck on the Northern Central railroad.

Previous to reporting for duty at the roundhouse Engineer James B. Burd, who pilots the Buffalo flyer, leaving Harrisburg at 11:10 p. m., dreamed that his train had run into a landslide at a point between Dauphin and Halifax, fifteen miles from here. He told his dream to several roundhouse attaches, but they laughed at him.

Engineer Burd, to relieve his mind, determined to run slowly after passing Dauphin. So, speeding his train up to the limit till Dauphin was passed, Burd slowed up.

And it was well he did, for at a point some distance north of Dauphin, identical with the place he had seen in his dream, the engine plowed into a landslide. Going slowly, the engineer was able to bring his train to a stop with little or no damage.

HADLEY READY TO WAGE FIGHT FOR A TWO-CENT FARE IN MISSOURI.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

Herbert S. Hadley, attorney general of Missouri, returned yesterday from Colorado, where he spent the latter part of the summer.

"I came back at this time because there are a good many things to be taken up in my office," he said. "My busy season will begin soon."

"When will the 2-cent fare matter come up?"

"The three months given to test the 2-cent fares will end Sept. 19. However, I understand from the railroad lawyers that they will not ask the court to take up the matter before October 1, and I do not know that they will call it up then. However, I want to be prepared to give them a good enough fight to at least show them they have had a law suit."

More Men Are Wanted.

Laborers are wanted at the Missouri Pacific shops, the pay being 16 cents an hour.

Sedalia has loafers without end who neither toil nor spin, and the authorities should see to it that they either go to work or leave town.

Men are wanted in all of the departments at the shops, for which first-class pay is given.

His Wife Has Left Him.

The wife of Curt Hermann, a Missouri Pacific boilermaker, who lived at Sixth street and New York avenue, separated from him last night and returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Driskell, 1614 East Fourth street.

Hermann says he gave his wife his check yesterday, and she also took $20 that he had saved up at home.

There May Be a Strike.

M. W. Cadle, first assistant grand chief engineer of the B. & L. E., went to St. Louis this morning on brotherhood business.

The differences between the Brotherhood and the Missouri Pacific management have not yet been settled, but Mr. Cadle still hopes that an agreement will be reached that will prevent a strike.

Had a Finger Mashed.

Peter Vollmer, the railway mail clerk, had the misfortune to badly mash the index finger of his right hand yesterday. Drs. Collins and Nasse dressed the digit. Nothing serious is anticipated, although the wound is a very painful one.

LURED TO CITY AND KILLED?

Farmer's Daughter Believed to Have Been Murdered.

St. Louis, Sept. 17.—Authorities of St. Louis and St. Charles counties are searching for Victoria Case, 16 years old, of Dixon, Mo., on the theory that she was the woman whom John Vetter, a fisherman, says he saw thrown from the St. Charles highway, bridge into the Mississippi river seventy feet below.

The girl, who was induced to leave home by a farm hand employed by her father, and who had been living in a house boat near the river, has not been seen for several days.

Several persons have informed the authorities that they saw a woman's hat floating down stream Sunday morning, and a real estate man with an office near the bridge says he heard two men and a woman quarreling Saturday night on the bridge back of his office.

Another house boat dweller has been arrested, making five persons who are being held pending investigation.

SHEEP BREEDERS TO MEET

Annual Meeting Here During State Fair Next Month.

The regular annual meeting of the Missouri Sheep Breeders' association is hereby called to be held in the auditorium of the Dairy building Missouri state fair grounds, Sedalia, on Wednesday, October 9, to convene promptly at 10 a. m. The report of the committee on constitution and by-laws, appointed at the Columbia meeting, will be presented and acted upon; the various officers and auditing committee will report, and a full corps of officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

Every sheep man in the state, whether a member of the association or not, is cordially invited and urged to attend this meeting, and assist in the work "for more and better sheep for Missouri." That will be "Sheepman's day," as well as Governor's day, at the state fair. We will have a great show of fine sheep and the largest assemblage of enthusiastic votaries of the "golden hoofs" ever brought together in the state—you can't afford to miss it. Please tell your neighbors about this meeting and urge them to attend.—M. V. Carroll, Secretary, Sedalia, Mo. A. T. Grimes, President, Greenwood, Mo.

WHAT LABOR SHOULD DO

ought to make itself felt in the political field in Missouri.

SO THINKS MR. CHARLES W. FEAR

Should Work in Politics Just as It Does in Industrial Field, Electing Wage Earners to the Legislature.

"The time is near at hand when organized labor will make itself felt in the political arena as it has been in the industrial field," said Charles W. Fear, recently of the legislative board of the Missouri Federation of Labor, this afternoon.

"Like the toilers of England and Australia, the American workmen are beginning to realize what can be accomplished by legislative action. And like the toilers of these two countries, the American workmen have begun to elect men from their own ranks to congress.

CHARLES W. FEAR.

Secretary of the Joint Labor Board of Missouri to the State Legislatures and City Councils.

"I hope that the present convention will set on foot plans that will result in seeing a number of different craftsmen elected to the next session of the Missouri legislature. "With a membership of 100,000 persons in the state, the toilers should have some direct representation. However, I do not favor the formation of a labor party. There is a more sensible plan. Bring out men active in labor circles; have them nominated by the party in which the candidate is active, and then see that the nominee is elected. Labor can secure the legislation it desires in this way, and in my humble opinion that is the best and most feasible plan to be pursued."

SOON TO LEAVE SEDALIA

Frank Willbarger Is Going to South Bend, Indiana.

Frank Willbarger, electrician for the Sedalia Light and Traction company for the past fifteen years and two months, and a resident of Sedalia since 1882, has presented his resignation to the company and will leave the latter part of the week for South Bend, Ind., where he will reside in future.

His son, Alto Willbarger, in the employ of the same company, has also resigned, and will accompany his father to the Hoosier state.

Mr. Willbarger's daughter, Miss Alma, a saleslady at Ramsey's Rack et, will continue to reside in Sedalia, at least until next spring.

Just what Mr. Willbarger will do at South Bend he has not decided, but he will accept one of three good positions that are at his disposal.

Sedalia has no better citizen than Frank Willbarger, and a legion of friends will wish him every possible success in the land of Hoosierdom.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

QUITE A LARGE BATCH OF BUSINESS WAS TRANSACTED LAST NIGHT.

IMPROVEMENT CONTRACTS ARE LET

Red Men Refused Permission to Hold a Carnival on Osage Street Week of the State Fair—Ordinances Passed.

City council met in regular session at 8:15 o'clock last night. Messrs. Hatton and Hugelman were absent. Minutes of previous meetings were read and approved.

An ordinance repealing former ordinances establishing sub-districts A, B and C in sewer district No. 22, read at a previous meeting and referred to committee, was passed.

A petition for sidewalks on the east side of Ohio avenue, from Eighteenth to Twenty-eighth streets, was received and an ordinance was ordered drawn.

A petition for opening the alley between Missouri and Harrison avenues and Eighteenth and Twentieth streets was referred to the proper committee.

Mr. Crawford verbally asked for an ordinance for curbing on Sixteenth street, from Ohio to Barrett avenue. The request was granted. Mr. Crawford also asked that Ohio street be worked weekly until after the fair. Arrangements were made to that end.

Apache tribe No. 55, I. O. R. M., was refused permission to use Osage avenue, from Fourth to Main street, for a carnival during October 7-12 inclusive, state fair week. Messrs. Crawford, Hatton and Ilgenfritz voted "no."

A resolution giving Apache tribe the above privilege was defeated; the same three aldermen voting "no."

A report of the finance committee, deciding to grade Ingram avenue to convenience the Six-Mile road district commissioners, was read and received.

Several special committee chairmen asked for a continuance in their respective work, the requests being granted.

City Attorney McGruder, speaking relative to the liability of the City water company for failure to furnish water during the fire at Sixth street and Massachusetts avenue, a week ago last Friday, said the water company could be penalized in the sum of $200 for the inefficiency on that occasion. Mr. Sullivan's motion to deduct $200 from the city's water bill carried.

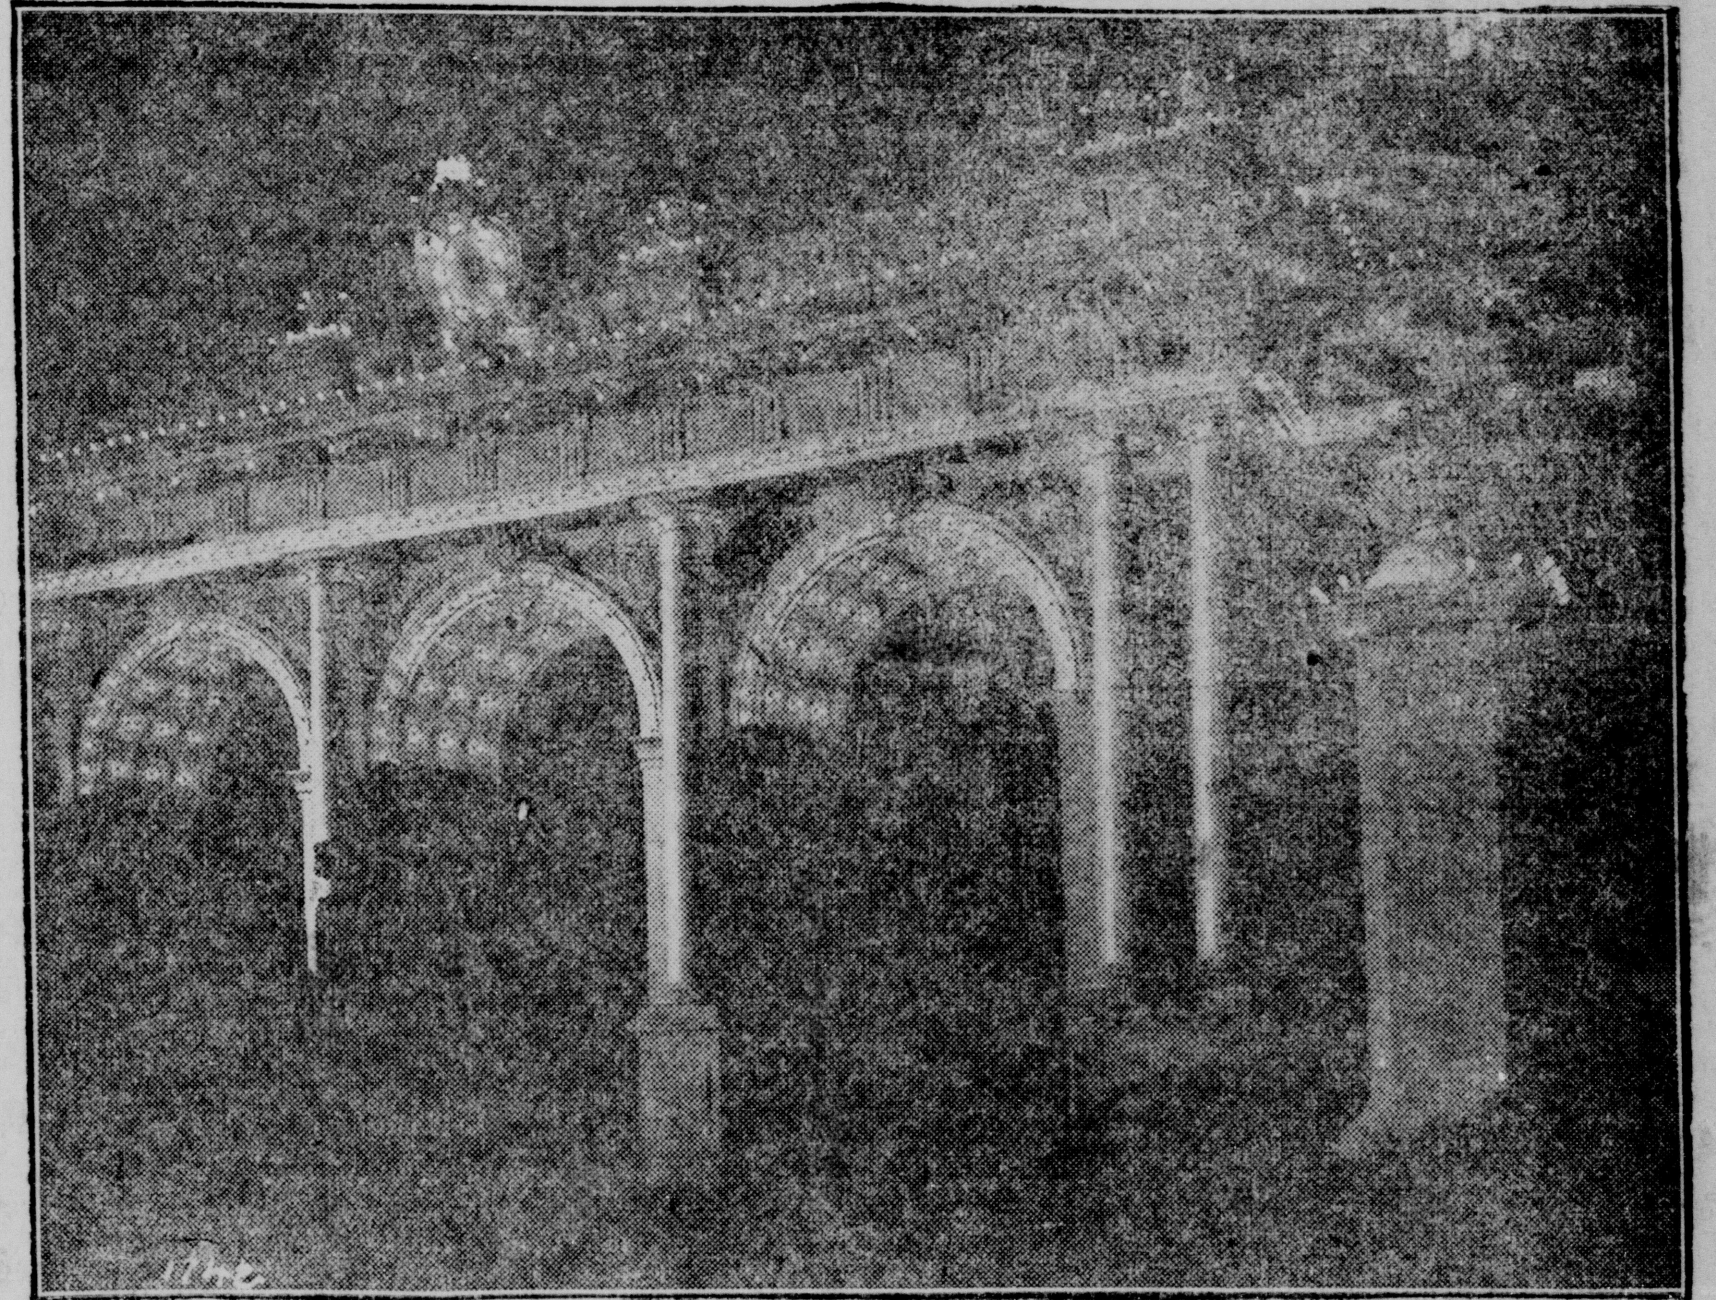

Bids for paving Kentucky avenue, from Third street to Broadway, were received, as follows: Dean Bros., $1.40 per square yard; John Hyatt, $1.37 1/2. Mr. Hyatt got the contract.

Bids for paving Quincy avenue, from Third street to Broadway, were received, as follows: John Hyatt, $1.45; J. W. Menefee, $1.50. Mr. Hyatt was awarded the contract.

Bids for paving Massachusetts avenue, from Sixth to Thirtieth street, were received, as follows: Dean Bros., $1.67; Frank Keller, $1.69; John Hyatt, $1.65. Mr. Hyatt got the contract.

Profiles for constructing sub-districts in sewer districts Nos. 37, 38 and 39 were presented by City Engineer Zoll and received.

The following ordinances were passed: Adopting "Suburban Place" as an addition to the city of Sedalia; adopting "Southend addition" as an addition to the city; letting the contract for paving Kentucky avenue, from Third to Broadway; letting the contract for paving Massachusetts avenue, from Sixth to Thirtieth streets; letting the contract for paving Quincy avenue, from Third street to Broadway.

A remonstrance against paving Monticau avenue was read and referred to Engineer Zoll.

Other ordinances passed are: One to create sewer districts in district No. 22; establishing a sub-district in district No. 37; establishing sewer district No. 38; establishing sewer district No. 39.

A petition from the Byrne Construction company, asking for an extension of time to macadamize Sixteenth street, from Grand to Barrett avenue, was read and laid over until the next meeting.

Street Commissioner Kruse was ordered to employ a force of men to cut weeds in different parts of town. The weed-cutting "brigade" is not to be composed of city street men.

The invitation to attend the German day celebration was accepted.

All properly audited bills were allowed, and council adjourned at 11 p. m. to meet again next Monday night.

CURE YOUR KIDNEYS.

Do Not Endanger Life When a Sedalia Citizen Shows You the Cure.

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases, cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in. Read this Sedalia testimonial:

Joseph Adams, blacksmith at 211 South Osage street, and living at 417 West Fifth street, Sedalia, Mo., says: "I was troubled for years with a constant misery in my back and sharp pains along the channel running from the kidneys to the bladder. During the night I would have to get up four or five times to pass the secretions, especially in cold or damp weather. I got Doan's Kidney Pills. They did me so much good that I got a second box. After using three boxes in all I did not have to arise at night so frequently and my back was free from the pains and was stronger than it had been for a long while. From my experience I can say that Doan's Kidney Pills can be relied upon to bring beneficial results in all cases of backache and kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Mrs. Press' Mother Dead.

A telegram was received here last night from St. Louis, telling of the death of Mrs. Arion, of that city, and the mother of Mrs. Otto Press, wife of the pastor of the German Evangelical church of this city, at her home there at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, of lung and kidney trouble.

Mrs. Press has been at her mother's bedside several days, and Rev. Press was called there yesterday morning, but his mother-in-law was dead before he reached the Mound City.

AID FOR TELEGRAPHERS

Labor Unions to Be Asked to Give Financial and Moral Support.

Washington, Sept. 17.—As the result of frequent conferences, President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, will issue today an appeal for aid for the striking telegraphers.

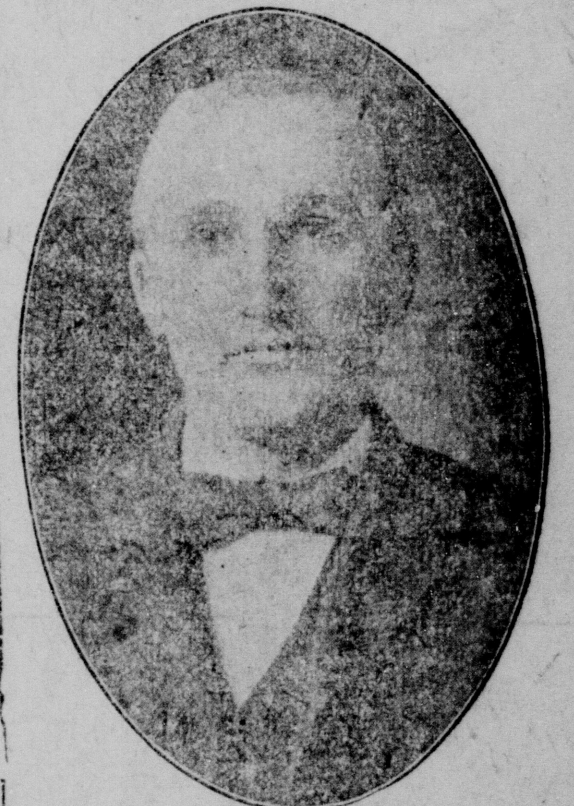

Discussing the address, Mr. Gompers said that the document had been completed, and would be given to the public today.

"It will be," he said, "a general request to organized labor for assistance, both financial and moral, in accordance with the pledge made at the recent meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor."

The crowds are all going to the skating rink at Liberty park. Be sure and follow the crowds.

Thought Brakeman Steered.

The little girl had become well acquainted with automobiles long before she had ridden in a railroad train, and she had even attempted to help her father steer on the family's automobile trips. When she clambered on the steam cars for the first time she was much excited and her questions fairly tumbled over themselves. Finally she noticed the brakeman turning the wheel between the two cars. She watched him approvingly for a few minutes and then as he suddenly left the wheel she grasped her father in alarm.

"Tell him to go back, papa; he must go back," she shouted. Papa looked at her in amazement. "Who must go back, Dorothy?" he asked.

"Why, the man who steers," she said breathlessly. "He's left the wheel and we'll run off the track."

COW ATE DYNAMITE

AND FOR A TIME THERE WAS CHAOS ON THE FARM.

Peculiar Diet of Bovine Simply Unsettled Everything—Caused Labor Complication Among Other Things.

Queer demands are coming from the farmers on the line of the new acqueduct, says the New York Times.

A claim for "one dynamited cow" was settled the other day. When the claim reached the controller it called for $425. The controller turned it over to the board of water supply, which in turn sent Engineer Charles E. Davis to investigate. The claimant was John McCauley, of Brown's station, Uster county. The engineering force had been at work near his place. The claim, he said, included the tramping down of growing grain. "Was the cow blown up?" asked the engineer.

"Not exactly," said the claimant, "but she scared us all to death. You see, one of the engineers had left a stick of dynamite in a field and the cow ate it. She probably thought it was an ear of corn or something. You know how hard it is to get any hired men in this section. Why, the department of agriculture has sent out circulars telling the farmer how to get over the labor difficulty. I've got one of them up to the house.

"Well, some of the help I have had read that circular that was lying about the house, and then they kicked for more pay. There was Ed and John—"

"What's that got to do with the cow?" asked the investigator.

"Well, I was telling my story in my own way. You see, labor is scarce, and I had got that darned circular locked up in a closet, and I was hoping to keep Bill with me for a little, when Bill and I was walking through that field toward the cow. We saw her eating something and we didn't mistrust anything until we got up close to her just as the end of the stick was sticking out of her mouth, and I saw what it was.

"What's she eating?" asked Bill. "I didn't feed her anything."

"Bill," says I, "if there's one thing of which I wouldn't suspect you it's work. I know darn well you didn't feed that cow anything. But she's fed herself," says I, "and it's darned hot stuff," says I.

"Bill he looked a little queer."

"What is it?" says he.

"Dynamite," says I.

"My God," says he.

"He stood still for so long a time that I thought he wasn't afraid. All of a sudden the cow turned and walked toward him.

"Drive her off; we'll both be killed," says Bill, picking up a big stone.

"Don't you do it," says I; "she'll explode. She's full of dynamite, and the slightest jar'll set her off."

"Bill began to laugh—half laugh and half cry, you know, like a lady summer boarder I once had who found a toad under her bed when she was looking for a man. Then I says:

"Bill, it's up to you to do something."

"Why is it up to me?" says he. "You own the cow."

"That's just it," says I. "I own the cow and you are working for the man that owns her."

"Bill gave me a look. Then he says: 'Well, I ain't working for him no longer,' says he, and with that he cut across the fields without waiting for his wages.

"Well, my family and I stayed that night at the home of my brother, five miles away, to make sure of being safe. In the morning I went back to the farm and found that the cow was dead. The dynamite had poisoned her. John Wilkey, the dare devil of the neighborhood, carried off the body for $10."

The engineer found upon questioning the force in the neighborhood that a stick of dynamite had disappeared. So he settled for $150. The farmer took the money.

"Say," he said, "you know I have a telephone in my house. Day before yesterday Bill called me up."

"Say," says he, "is that cow dead? If she is I'm coming back for my wages."

"You'll get no wages," says I."

Sermon in a Few Words.

We are very much impressed by something we saw and heard while passing along the street a few evenings since. A young girl was standing in front of a store, and near her, with a hang-dog expression on his face, was a young stripling of a boy. As we passed the two, the girl said to the boy: "Any one who speaks of my father as 'the old man' is not worthy of my respect." From the tone of her voice, we knew that the girl spoke from the impulse of a moment, but there was a whole sermon in her utterance. We don't know the girl, but if she lives she will develop into a noble womanhood, and the world will be the better for her having lived in it. And the boy, if he has any redeeming qualities in him, will profit by the lesson given him in that one sentence.—Burlington Chronicle.

who accept 65-cent barytes or silica and pay $8.00 (the price of White Lead) for it, or who pay even half the price of White Lead, could hardly be called shrewd buyers.

That is the "bargain" which the buyer of "graded" or so-called "cheap" lead makes.

KING OF THE TURF

ECLIPSE CONSIDERED WORLD'S GREATEST RACE HORSE.

Was Never Beaten, Never Whipped, and Never Felt Distressed—His Record One of Victory from Beginning to End.

What horse has proved itself the greatest racer in the history of the world? Most experts would undoubtedly at once answer "Eclipse!" says the Montreal Standard.

The great son of Marske and Spilleta was foaled at Cranbourne Lodge, England, in 1764. The duke of Cumberland was his breeder, and he was purchased when a yearling by a meat salesman named Wildman. He was an ugly-headed leggy colt, thick in the wind, of violent temper, and unmanageable spirit. The method of his training would startle the careful owners of to-day. "He was sent for some time to a rough rider named George Elter, or Elters," says Mr. Cook, in his recent review of Eclipse's wonderful victories, "who almost worked him to death by riding him about all day, and sometimes kept him out all night on poaching expeditions." This treatment, which would have killed most thoroughbreds, added strength and muscle to Eclipse. And when in 1769 he began to race his strength and spirit were unimpaired. "Jack Oakley, who rode him in nearly all his races," Mr. Cook tells us, "never attempted to hold him, but sat quietly in his saddle and let him go as he pleased, with the result that he cut down his field at the start and kept on increasing his lead; for the farther he went the more he seemed to enjoy himself, so that he must have had a combination of speed, stride, endurance and weight-carrying ability over a distance which can never have been surpassed in the history of the horse before or since."

In one sense Eclipse's great qualities were a disadvantage to him. So far superior was he to all competitors that the betting was generally 100 to 1 on him, and he was early withdrawn from racing because no one would enter a horse against him. The one and only horse that ever pressed him was Bucephalus, whose constitution was irreparably ruined by the contest. Never was there such a career! A record of victory from beginning to end, and victory won with consummate and contemptuous ease. "Eclipse," says Mr. Lawrence, "was never beaten, never had a whip flourished over him, or felt the tickling of a spur, or was ever for a moment distressed, outfooted, outstriding and outlasting every horse which started against him."

O'Kelly, the owner, whose name is always linked with the name of Eclipse, bought the famous horse of Wildman after his first race. He must have had a strong faith both in the horse and in his own judgment. He gave 1,750 guineas for him—at that time an exceedingly high price—and was abundantly justified by the result. Eclipse stood at stud at Clay Hill and brought his owner £25,000 in fees. In 23 years there were numbered among his descendants 344 winners, with a total in stakes to their credit of more than £158,000. And the blood of Eclipse is still the aristocracy of the turf.

His name has passed into a proverb: "Eclipse first and the rest nowhere!" It was after the first heat of Eclipse's first race that O'Kelly made his memorable bet. "Desirous of adding to his gains," writes Mr. Cook, "and being perfectly confident that this great horse could race as well as he could gallop, he made a heavy wager (which was naturally taken up with considerable eagerness) that he would place all the horses in the second heat. When asked to name their order he pronounced the famous sentence: 'Eclipse first and the rest nowhere,' as he was sure that all the other horses would be 'distanced' (i. e., beaten by more than 200 yards), and therefore would not be placed by the judges." He won his bet and assured for his horse the eternal celebrity which only a proverb can confer.

Imitation Blizzard at Home. "If you want to get a cheap imitation of a Kansas blizzard here in New York," said the western woman, "take half a dozen small ears of green corn, put them in a kettle and shut down the lid. Then let the water boil and boll.

"Pretty soon that lid will begin to rise gently up and down and the water and the corn and I don't know what else will go to moaning and sighing and sobbing so like the fierce north wind coming at the rate of 60 miles an hour across the miles and miles of frozen prairie that you forget the thermometer has risen to somewhere near the boiling point, and go in and crawl under the blankets to try and get warm again."—N. Y. Press.

Extra Good. "We got fine filtered water in our office," said one of two office boys who were comparing notes on a downtown corner.

"Pooh! That's nothin'," replied the other, "We've got this here lithograph water in ours."—Kansas City Times.

Frenchman Piles Up Costs Against a Railroad for an Overcharge.

A wealthy Frenchman recently bought a ticket at a Paris railway terminus but missed the train he intended to take. While waiting for the next train, which left two hours later, he studied the company's tariff to pass away the time.

He then found, says the Railway and Engineering Review, that he had been charged 14 francs 45 centimes, whereas the proper fare was only 14 francs 42 centimes. He asked for his money back at the office, but without result. An interview with the station master was also unsuccessful. He afterward wrote a number of letters to the company, but received no answer. He then commenced an action to recover the three centimes.

He won the action in the lower court, but the company took it to the appeal court, afterward to the Cour de Cassation. Both courts dismissed the appeal and the company was ordered to pay the plaintiff the three centimes.

The cost of the company amounted to $8,250 francs, or $1,650.

Newest Railroad Ties.

The latest improvement in railroad ties is a combination of wood and metal which, it is claimed, solves the present difficulties. The amount of wood employed is quite small as compared with that entering into a full tie, and yet it is said to be sufficient to impart the same elasticity to the roadbed as is experienced when the wooden ties are used. In addition to this, the wood used in the combination is so protected that its life is greatly prolonged. This steel tie is of the same length as the wooden one, eight feet, and consists of steel channels five inches deep. The wood made use of is in the shape of bearings, which are two feet long, eight feet wide and six feet deep, and these form a solid foundation for the rails. The tracks are spiked in the usual manner. The wooden bearings becoming damaged by use or otherwise may be replaced by the removal of one bolt without disturbing the tie. Its increased length of life as compared with the tie is due to the fact that it does not come in contact with the ground.

Europe's Top Railway Speed.

The German Railway Journal claims that the greatest speed ever attained in Europe by a steam-driven train has been reached on several trips during the past week between Munich and Augsburg on the Bavarian State railway.

The express train locomotives pulled trains weighing 150 tons at a maximum speed of 96½ miles per hour, which was maintained for a considerable period.

S.S.S. KILLS THE GERMS OF SCROFULA

Through the blood, diseases are carried from one generation to another. Parents transmit them to their children, and so it goes on down the family line for years and years unless the taint is removed from the blood. Especially is this true of Scrofula, for it is a disease that is "bred in the bone," and unless the blood is purified and every trace of the trouble removed the miserable disease will finally undermine the entire health and wreck the life of its victim. The usual symptoms of Scrofula are enlarged glands or tumors about the neck, which often burst and become discharging ulcers, weak eyes, Catarrh of the head and throat, skin diseases, etc. The trouble being so firmly entrenched in the blood often attacks the bones, resulting in White Swelling, or hip disease, while a waxy, pallid appearance of the skin, loss of strength and energy, and often lung affections, show that the disease is entirely destroying the bright red corpuscles and rich, nutritive qualities of the blood. Scrofula being a constitutional disease, one affecting the entire circulation, must be treated with a remedy that builds up and strengthens every part of the system, which has so long been denied the strength and nourishment it should have received from the blood. S. S. S. is the best of all blood purifiers and the greatest of all tonics, and is therefore the ideal remedy for Scrofula. S. S. S. searches out and destroys all germs, taints and poisons, gives strength, richness and vigor to the blood and cures Scrofula permanently. It so thoroughly removes the trouble from the blood that no signs of it are ever seen again, and posterity is started out in life with a clean, pure blood supply, which is their rightful inheritance. S. S. S. while thorough, is gentle in its action, and the healing vegetable ingredients which compose it build up every part of the system. Book on the blood and medical advice free. WOMAN DETECTIVE FEARLESS IN HER WORK.

Ethel King Responsible for the Breaking Up of Many Gangs of Criminals—Able to Take Care of Herself.

Should you meet a good-looking sailor boy, with a complexion something too good for one who follows the sea, take a second look at him. It may be Ethel King, the woman detective of Philadelphia, in one of her many disguises.

Take a searching glance at the messenger boy who runs, with head down,
to deliver a missive. It is possible that the female sleuth may be hiding
her identity within the blue suit.
Look around you in opium-scented Chinatown. The dapper woman who trips past the lookout at the gambling
joint, with a side glance at the closed door, may be pretty Ethel King in the costume of her sex, but sent on a mission that is very unusual to a woman.

At home Miss King lives a quiet and secluded life. Few of her associates in the boarding-house at which she has her room know what a distinguished personage is the dark-eyed girl who is so frequently away on mysterious trips.

Absolutely without fear Miss King has accepted any dangerous work that has come to her in the line of duty.
She has donned the uniform of a United States sailor and haunted the docks and navy yard vicinity in search for information regarding sailor criminals.

Being a small woman and looking rather diminutive in boys' clothes
Miss King had no difficulty in assuming the character of a district messenger Mercury. She readily assumed the jargon of the corps, as well as the uniform of the messenger boy, and did valuable work in breaking up a series of pilferings and clever swindles that the youngsters had carried on for years at the expense of the company and its customers.

She learned that the boys were in the habit of meeting in the street and exchanging caps, so that should a complaint be made of money collected on prepaid messages, or of cash missing from envelopes intrusted to the boys for delivery, it would be easy to establish an alibi. Miss King astounded the management of the company
by her revelations concerning the tricks of the messenger boys and enabled the regular sleuths of the concern to checkmate the systematic stealings and guard against a repetition of them.

As a scullery girl Miss King assisted in the arrest of a notorious woman thief who had been in the habit of hiring out as a domestic for the purpose of allowing her criminal friends
to enter and rob the house at night.
The woman sleuth washed dishes and watched the other woman, and when the critical time came, and the house was raided in the dead of night, the
would-be thieves were caught in a trap.

Miss King has assisted in the suppression of the opium traffic and of the gambling dens of Chinatown. She has made friends with the yellow man
and in due time betrayed him to the police. She has been threatened time and again, but has not so far been attacked. Threats she ignores, and any one who has talked with her for a time is impressed with the idea that in a tight corner she could well take care of herself, for, as she says:

"A woman is as good as a man in a gun fight, and I am always ready."
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Snake Killing Kitten.
George Fornwald, substitute mail carrier, Bloomburg, owns a cat which,
strange to say, will not catch a mouse,
but spends its time in the yards hunting for garter snakes.

The cat so far this season has caught three snakes and brought them to the house, and after laying a snake
down on the porch it goes back again in the yard to hunt for more. Two of the snakes the cat has caught were captured in one day, while the other was caught a day later. These three are the only ones Mr. Fornwald has seen, yet some of the neighbors say they often see the cat with a snake
in its mouth.

Whether or not the animal would tackle anything larger than a garter snake is hard to tell, yet from the fight it puts up when it gets hold of one of these smaller species it is evident that it would probably be able to get away with a larger one. The snake-killing cat is not very large and is still nothing more than a kitten.—

Successful Voyage of Australian's Ark.
Australia has given to humanity an interesting Noah in the person of Felix Tanner, who some time ago left Australia for New Zealand with a scheme for the construction of an ark which should carry a considerable number of passengers.

In Maoriland he persuaded quite a number of people to believe in his ideas, and some weeks ago "Tanner's Ark," a barrel shaped structure of quite unique design was built and the vessel put to sea from a small port near Christ Church. Tanner was on board with five companions.

The ark was bound for Timaru, a place about a hundred miles away,
and, granting fair weather, Timaru
should have been made in three days.
Nine people out of ten laughed at the enterprise, but the ark arrived safely
at its destination.

John Knox, Prophet.
John Knox, the reformer, would seem to have possessed in no ordinary degree the spirit of prediction and to have foretold with accuracy not only certain remarkable events of public importance, but also the ultimate fate of certain individuals. Thus when condemned to the galleys at Mochelle he took his sentence with the greatest composure, merely remarking that in spite of it he would "within two or three years, preach the Gospel in St.
Giles, Edinburgh." This prediction,
most improbable of accomplishment
at the time it was uttered, was afterwards literally fulfilled. Knox predic-

Hydraulic Lifeboats.
Several of these craft are now in service in the United States. The propelling agents are jets of water driven out by a powerful steam pump through nozzles under water.

The nozzles can be made to drive
the boat forward or backward, or turn it, the boat, of course, being driven by the reaction in the direction opposite to that of the escaping water.

A speed of 100 miles an hour was recently maintained in New York harbor in a trial trip.

Hydraulic lifeboats are not economical; their strong point is the absence of any external paddle wheels or propellers, which are so liable to become fouled by wreckage. The boat has projecting guards, which protect the nozzles from striking against slips
or docks.

down the glasses with the straws and tinkling ice. She smiled upon the young man opposite, who was slightly flushed and wholly unhappy.

"But unless I explain I never can make you understand why it wasn't so bad as it seemed!" he protested, eagerly.

The young woman looked down the golf course and then up and down
the clubhouse veranda before she remembered to answer.

"Really," she said negligently, "it doesn't matter at all. There is no reason why you should explain. It is such a very trivial matter that I shall not think of it again. If you wanted to cut your appointment for an auto spleen with me and go round the golf course with Mary White instead, that was all right. I admire a man who has the courage to do as he wishes!"

"I didn't wish to!" cried the miserable young man. "I—"

"I am sorry to hear you talk that way," said the young woman in a sad, way.

"Don't Be Conceited."

disappointed tone. "Mary White is a lovely girl and any man should be proud to be seen with her. She—"

"I am," interrupted the young man.
"I wasn't saying a word against Mary.
She's all right. Only I didn't want you to think for a minute—"

"As if it made any difference what I thought!" said the girl in organdy with resigned meekness. "I should never be so presumptuous as to expect you to keep an appointment with me if there was anything more interesting on hand for you to do."

The young man set his jaw. "You're just as mad as you can be about it!"
he told her. "And that's why you are so particularly hateful to me now! I wouldn't take so much pains to pretend that you didn't care if you weren't furious!"

"Don't be conceited, Archie," she begged him. "I like you so much that it grieves me to find you are as egotistical as most men. You really, truly don't imagine, do you, that it makes the slightest difference to me whether you prefer another girl to me?"

"The young man looked at her, helpless and admiring. "You certainly can grab a chance to hit back when you see it, can't you?" he asked. "Well,
if you won't admit that you're dying,
at least confess that you are dying to have me explain. The control you have of your curiosity is really wonderful."

The young woman regarded him with an aloof air. "You are in a very odd and impolite humor," she told him. "There is no use, I suppose, in my saying that I haven't the remotest curiosity to know why you went golfing with Mary and left me waiting on the other side of the veranda!"

"Not the least," asserted the young man. "Because I know you have."

"You are just trying to escape from the main points," rallied the girl in organdy. "Why not drop the subject?
Are you going to the Smithsons' house party?"

"Drop nothing," persisted the young man, "while you are in this haughty
state of mind! I can explain—"

"I don't want you to!" said the young woman, somewhat tartly.

"I owe it to myself," said the young man, firmly. "Of course you don't care about knowing, but I shall never be happy till you do know."

"Won't you, really?" asked the young woman.

"Never!" said the young man emphatically. "And that would be a dreadful thing to have on your conscience. Honest, it's nice of you to let me explain and I appreciate your forbearance. When I came to the clubhouse I was told that a telephone message had come saying that you couldn't get here for our ride and that it was off. So then I went golfing with Mary."

"Well," laughed the young woman in the organdy, "I didn't know you got that message. I just arrived here when you came in from making the round, so I haven't been waiting on the other side of the veranda at all.
You see, I was quite right when I started in by telling you not to explain!"

The young man looked relieved and then disgusted. "You had a good time with me, didn't you?" he said at last.—Chicago Daily News.

THE STAMP OF TRUTH.

A Nature Story About a Monkey Who Barked at a Cat.

In these days of nature-faking anecdotes the following, which bears the stamp of truth, will be welcomed by all animal lovers. A photograph owner living near Cheat mountain, Randolph county, W. Va., had two pets of which he was very fond. One was a Makaki monkey and the other a large and fierce tempered cat of male gender. The colored "mammy" who looked after the house detested the monkey, but made a favorite of the cat and gave it a large plate of food every midday, the monkey receiving no attention whatever from her. As the simian watched the cat eating while he went hungry, his brain devised the following clever scheme:
Placing a blank on the photograph
he ran quickly into the neighboring house and took a bone from the big,
savage dog who was gnawing it.
When he had recovered from his astonishment the dog pursued the thief
into the parlor where the photograph was and barked loudly. The monkey, on the top of the bookcase, was secure from harm. The old colored woman, thinking the dog was after her beloved grimalkin, chased him out and did not see the cause of the trouble or dream that the dog had been making a first-class barking record.

The following day mammy brought the plate of food as usual and the cat began to eat. The old woman was no sooner out of sight and hearing than the monkey placed the record in the machine and the air was filled with the noise of angry barks. The cat on hearing the voice of her enemy apparently in the some room emitted one blood-curdling screech, sprang through the window and spent two nights and a day at the top of the large chestnut tree outside. When the trick was finally discovered the monkey's owner was so pleased that he gave orders that the two animals should be treated equally in the matter of food. It is reported that he has refused a large sum of money for the monkey. Full permission is given to those publishers desiring to incorporate this anecdote in text books on natural history to be used in the public schools.

CREPT UP BEHIND MAN

And Shot Him Because He Refused to Support Him.

Monroe, La., Sept. 17.—C. W. Kennedy, a popular engineer on the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific railway, was shot and killed early yesterday by his brother-in-law, Tim Edwards, because Kennedy had announced that he would no longer support him in idleness.

Kennedy had just recovered from a broken leg, sustained in a wreck, and was standing in a doorway of a livery stable when Edwards, who had taken Kennedy's pistol from home, crept up behind him and shot him in the back.

Kennedy fled, and Edwards followed, firing as he ran, and when Kennedy fell he put two more shots into his prostrate body.

Edwards surrendered, but Kennedy, though fatally wounded, got up and telephoned for a doctor. He died two hours later.

RECALLS FAMOUS CASE

JOHN RUSKIN HANDED WIFE TO J. EVERETT MILLAIS, THE NOTED ARTIST.

THE WOMAN LONGED FOR SOCIETY

Husband Wedded to His Work, So He Readily Consented to Divorce and She Soon Became Wife of Another.

The Earle case, in which Mrs. Earle surrenders her husband so that he might wed his "affinity," finds a historic parallel in the celebrated case of John Ruskin, one of the world's most famous authors and art critics, says the St. Louis Republic.

It is more than half a century ago that the beautiful Euphemia Chalmers Gray, the wife of John Ruskin, abandoned her husband to become the wife of J. Everett Millais, who later became president of the Royal Academy of Great Britain.

In the case of the Earles, it is the woman who makes the sacrifice, which is even greater than that made by Ruskin, who cheerfully handed over his wife to a man he thought loved her more than he could.

John Ruskin married Euphemia Gray on April 10, 1848. He had been ill, and his parents thought his health and spirits were to be cured only by matrimony, and picked out the beautiful daughter of their old neighbor in Perth for his bride. The ceremony was decided upon some what suddenly.

The couple set up housekeeping in October, and Ruskin fell with fury upon compiling his "Seven Lamps," which occupied him the winter of 1848-49. So much of his time was devoted to writing that his wife tired of her literary husband.

She craved the social life, while London and society bored and irritated the writer. He once took her to a ball in Venice and to court at Buckingham palace.

In the summer of 1853 J. Everett Millais stayed with the Ruskins, and painted both. One day the wife left her husband and returned to her parents. A suit in the Scotch courts for nullity of the marriage was brought by the wife and was not defended by the husband.

Euphemia Gray then married the brilliant painter and was well known as the Lady Millais in the world of London, while John returned to his parents and remained with them until their death.

Neither the marriage nor the nullification of it seriously affected his habits or his books.

IDENTIFYING "U. S." ANIMALS.

System of Branding Authorized by the Army Regulations.

Whenever you see the letters "U. S." branded on the left fore shoulder of an animal make up your mind at once that that beast is or was at one time the property of our rich old "Uncle Sam," says the Washington Post.

Then, again, if you know the key to the system of branding utilized by the quartermaster's department, U. S. A., you would in a moment be able to tell the organization of the army to which that animal was assigned immediately after purchase by the government.

Last October, when the army of Cuban pacification was being embarked from Newport News, Va., many of the army horses and mules awaiting shipment became mixed with those of other organizations, but it only needed the knowledge of Sergt. Casey to decipher the hoof brands and dispatch the animals to their proper organizations. In other words, these brands serve as "identification tags."

Branding public animals is not a matter of choice, but is provided for by the army regulations, which directs that "public animals shall, upon the day received, be branded with the letters 'U. S.' on the left fore shoulder. Horses assigned to organizations will also be branded on the hoof of one forefoot, one and one-half inches below the coronet, with the designation of the company. Branding irons of uniform size and design will be supplied by the quartermaster's department. Letters 'U. S.' to be two inches in height. Letters and numbers of hoof brands on the same line to be three-fourths of an inch high, the letter to precede the number, and blocked so as to penetrate the hoof one-sixteenth of an inch. For example, the hoof brands on horses assigned to band, Ninth cavalry, would be CB9; to troop A, Fifth cavalry, would be A5; to Company A, battalion of engineers, would be BEA."

Jewel for Child Heroine.

Ethel Johnson, a child heroine of the Columbia disaster, has received a magnificent butterfly of gold and diamonds from an unknown admirer, according to a Portland correspondent of the Seattle Times.

It was taken to the home of R. R.

Dingle, where little girl is stopping, on Saturday by a jewelry store employee. There was no note of explanation, no signature, telling who was the sender of so magnificent a gift, merely the words, "From a Portland admirer."

Little Ethel Johnson saved two lives in the Columbia disaster. She rescued her child companion, Effie Gordon, and held her above water until taken aboard a life boat.

While struggling with her companion a man who could scarcely swim was also saved by her. He seized hold upon her and was also held above the water by her childish efforts. Perhaps this man sent the present.

CATARH IS CURABLE

Successful Experiments in Abating and Curing This Disease.

Catarh is an entirely unnecessary disease and should not be tolerated for a single day now that Hyomei is so generally known and has made so many cures in Sedalia and other towns.

Until comparatively recent times catarh was thought to be a blood disease and stomach dosing the only treatment. Modern science finally disproved this idea of the cause of catarh, and found that it was a germ disease and, after many experiments, the remedy was decided to be Hyomei.

Hyomei medicates the air you breathe; it kills the catarrhal germs; it heals the smarting and raw membranes of the passages in the nose and throat; it cures all catarrhal troubles.

As there is life and health in the air in the mountain-tops where the pine forests give off their fragrant and healing balsams, so there is life and health in breathing Hyomei. There is no need of suffering from catarh if the simple and natural treatment of Hyomei is used.

So sure is this prescription to cure even the worst cases of catarh, that the W. E. Bard Drug Co. sells it under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not do all that is claimed for it.

THE VALUE OF PERSONAL KNOWLEDGE

Personal knowledge is the winning factor in the culminating contests of this competitive age and when of ample character it places its fortunate possessor in the front ranks of

The Well Informed of the World.

A vast fund of personal knowledge is really essential to the achievement of the highest excellence in any field of human effort.

A Knowledge of Forms, Knowledge of Functions and Knowledge of Products are all of the utmost value and in questions of life and health when a true and wholesome remedy is desired it should be remembered that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., is an ethical product which has met with the approval of the most eminent physicians and gives universal satisfaction, because it is a remedy of Known Quality, Known Excellence and Known Component Parts and has won the valuable patronage of millions of the Well Informed of the world, who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual use that it is the first and best of family laxatives, for which no extravagant or unreasonable claims are made.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to worldwide acceptance as the most excellent family laxative. As its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well Informed of the world to be the best we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of—Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects, always note, when purchasing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, whether you call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

In Texas he will visit at Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, Corpus Christi and Brownsville. He will be accompanied to Fort Worth by Mrs. M. R. Anderson and two little sons, who have spent the last two months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Dobel.

Harry's business will be attended to by Charles Dobel, of Childress, Texas, who will return on a thirty days' leave of absence.

Occasional headache, belching, bad taste in the mouth, lack of appetite and slight nervousness are symptoms of indigestion, which, when allowed to go uncured, will develop into a case of dyspepsia that will take a long time to get rid of. Don't neglect your stomach. At the first indication of trouble take something that will help it along in its work of digesting the food you eat. Kodol for indigestion and dyspepsia will do this. Kodol will make your food do you good and will enable you to enjoy what you eat. Sold by Arlington pharmacy.

Queer Place for a Station.

In an interesting article on railway stations in curious places the Railway Times states that "probably the last place in which one would expect to find a railway station would be in a cemetery. And yet at Brookwood, near Woking, a single line runs from the London & Southwestern railway into the cemetery itself. Here, as is known, is the crematorium of the London Necropolis company, and the station in question is in connection therewith. It is provided with platform and waiting-room, and close by is the church in which the funeral services are held."
